EDITORIAL

I'm very proud and even excited, to have been asked to write an editorial for the latest works of my good friend GPH, which you find in this here magazine HYENA.

The main question, as always off course, is: "Is this art?" I'll explain. What is art? Art is expensive. Art is crafty. Art is hard to understand. Yeah! That is art, and then some more. People complaining about art, usually spoken in a mocking posh voice and with moving shoulders are simply wankers, who don't get it all and never will. I'm educated, I dig art. Show me Rembrandt's "The Jewish bride", where the old man lays his hand on the tit of a young girl. Show me "L'origine du monde" (that's French) by Courbet, where you get a moving view on a hairy cunt. Show me Van Klomp's "Fallen Madonna with the big boobies", with the outstanding tits of the fallen woman, who looks exactly like Madonna. These are spectacular works, rich in meaning, in a balanced composition. They make you not only wonder about the origins of life itself and about the purpose of our life (which, if the opportunity arises, I will explain to you in another editorial) etc., but they also arouse a certain je-ne-sais-quoi. I even think art sometimes can be sexy. I once saw the lines and colored squares of Mondriaan, and, I'm not ashamed to say so, after a while I noticed I had a hard-on. Art makes you feel a man, or, I'm not being picky here, a woman, or any of those new, modern life forms.

Art pours life into your lungs and veins and by doing so moves people and brings them together, while at the same time it brings a welcome separation betwixt those who understand it and the fuckers who don't. Thus, it propels us into a better, greater world.

And here HYENA steps in. It is GPH's way to spread love and affection over all people and to make the world just that tiny bit better. Those who understand art, and, no doubt, you are one of them, KNOW here's the work of a man on a mission. And it is sensational. In the thirties it would have been called Entartet (that's German), while at the same time Göring would want to have this. That's what I mean with "bringing people together". Just open HYENA at a random page, take a deep breath and let the sensations pour into your senses. I love GPH. I love his work, and yes, while writing this, again I feel like a fountain, spreading the seeds of life. Man, do I love art. I love HYENA.

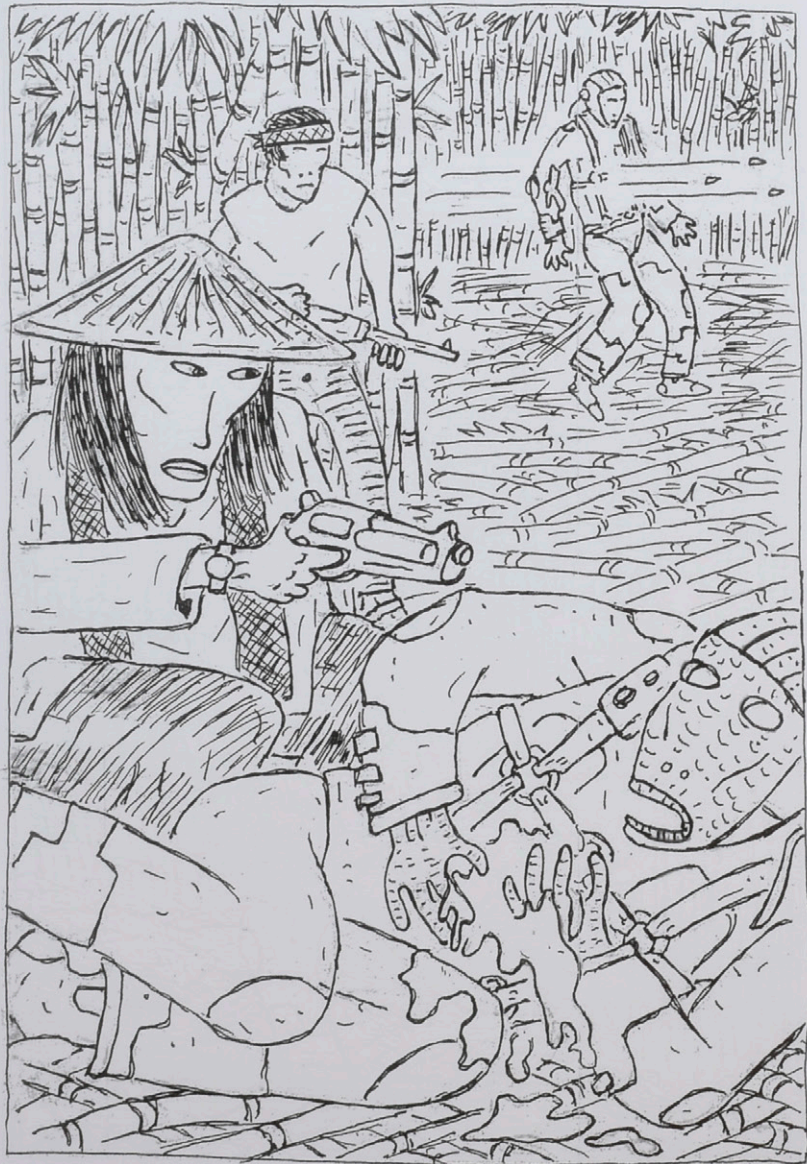

Yours truly,
Joop Wilhelmus
